In an open patient chart, the patient's name and other information will reside in the patient header. In addition to their demographic information, this header shows when their DHconnect access will expire.

The Chart Review activity lets you toggle among various tabs that organize patient information into logical groups. Click the tab with the type of information that you want to review.

While in clinical review, you can use the links in the left column to navigate to different views and activities. If you shrink your screen size, these links will relocate and appear above the patient name.

The first time you log into DHconnect, and periodically thereafter, you will need to accept the DHconnect Terms & Conditions of Use, which are subject to update.

The screenshot shows a dialog box titled "Terms and Conditions" with a blue header bar. The main content area has a white background and contains the following text:

D-Hconnect Terms & Conditions of Use

You are about to use a service that provides access to Protected Health Information (PHI) stored in the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Electronic Health Record. When you requested access to this system, you signed an agreement that stated:

- You will only use this service to access information you need to perform your work.
- You will never share your password with any other person.
- You are aware that all of the activity that takes place when you log in to this system is logged and subject to audit, and you may be required to justify your access.

You have previously attested that you have read and will abide by the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Privacy Group Policy Statement on Privacy and Confidentiality of Patient Information, and agree to access the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Electronic Health Record only when appropriate for patient care, and only as allowed by Dartmouth-Hitchcock Privacy Group Policy.

By selecting "Accept", you attest that you have read and signed the Agreement, and the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Privacy Group Policy Statement on Privacy and Confidentiality of Patient Information and agree to their terms.

At the bottom right of the dialog box, there are two buttons: "Accept" with a green checkmark icon and "Cancel" with a red X icon.

Many of the screens in DHconnect have the option to Toggle to full screen.

The screenshot shows a light beige background with a white box at the top containing the text "Toggle Full Screen Mode". Below this, there are two instructions:

Click  to expand to full screen

Click  to exit full screen

Below these instructions are two blue buttons. The left button contains three icons: the expand to full screen icon, a print icon, and a question mark icon. The right button contains the same three icons in the same order.

When available, the toggle buttons will appear in the upper right corner, to the left of the print button.
